STILL IMPROVING.

The President Passes a Comfortable Day.

How He Kills the Time in His Sick Chamber.

PROGRESSING FAVORABLY.

WASHINGTON, July 21.—The following telegram was sent to the consulting surgeons tonight by the attending surgeons:

EXECUTIVE MANSION, July 21, 5 p. m.—Since our telegram of yesterday the president has continued to do well. He passed a comfortable night. This morning a morsel of clothing about one-fourth of an inch square came away spontaneously with the pus from the deeper part of the wound. It proves, on examination, to consist chiefly of cotton fibers with a few woolen fibers. The medication was continued without change. At 8:30 a. m. his pulse was 88; temperature 98.4; respiration 19. At 1 p. m. his pulse was 92; temperature 98.4; respiration 19.

OFFICIAL BULLETIN.

EXECUTIVE MANSION, July 21, 7 p. m.—The president has had another good day; at 1 p. m. his pulse was 92; temperture 98.4; respiration 19. At 7 p. m. pulse 96; temperature 99.2; respiration 19.

EVENING BULLETIN.

EXECUTIVE MANSION, July 21, 11.30 p. m.—The slight change which has taken place in the president's condition since the last official bulletin has been in the direction of further improvement. He has passed a comfortable day and taken a little solid food again this afternoon in the shape of boiled chicken and has gained in strength. The afternoon fever has subsided and at this hour the president is quietly sleeping.

THE LATEST BULLETIN.

EXECUTIVE MANSION, July 22, 1.15 a. m.—The president seems to rest so very peacefully in his sleep during the past three or four nights that we cannot but believe he is steadily improving. Attending physicians are growing more hopeful every day. At this hour the president continues to sleep quietly. The indications are that he is not in much pain, there being no signs of fever.

TESTING THE PRESIDENT.

NEW YORK, July 21.—The Herald Washington special says the president hears now the greater part of the daily papers read, that is all of the things likely to interest him. Baker, Mrs. Garfield and Col. Rockwell read to him. Besides the colonel is beginning to read the telegrams and letters which were received at the time of the shooting. Inquiring messages and sympathizing letters from his personal friends have been read to him. In these of course he is deeply interested, but from his near friends all this might have been expected, so when he hears messages and letters from every portion of the Union and from men of different political opinions all showing the same solicitude as to his condition, he is deeply impressed. He says it is more than he could expect. Of the illustrated papers it is said he laughed over them. Wood cuts are rarely true likenesses and one which depicted the president on his bed of suffering seems to interest him a good deal. Altogether, he enjoyed looking at them exceedingly. He relished, also, a few words of print that he was enabled to read. They all think it would be a good idea to have each of the doctors' names tacked on the figures in these pictures, so that the average mind would not be confused. The president recognized Dr. Bliss quickly, as his features are more striking than others. His picture is good. Altogether, the sick room was pretty bright to-day.

STEADILY GROWING BETTER.

WASHINGTON, July 21.—The president had another good day and is doing very well tonight. Dr. Reyburn said to a reporter to-night that he had just examined the president and he was getting along finely. The discharge of pieces of cloth shows that the wound is drained out to the bottom. The wound continues to heal nicely inside. Dr. Reyburn said it was impossible to say just when the president would be able to take a sea voyage, but the surgeons hoped to get him aboard ship soon, and if the present rate of progress continues he will probably start in three or four weeks.

WATCHING THE WORKMEN.

While the other occupants of the White House were enjoying themselves driving this afternoon the president was not entirely without sources of amusement. He has been much interested in watching the men on the summit of two hundred feet of the Washington monument putting twenty feet of iron shafting to support the elevator. He can see them distinctly from his bed and he wondered whether it was as cool up there as it was in this room. The grass on the lawn below his window was cut yesterday. A portion of it was cut by a one-horse lawn mower, which made considerable noise, and so the rest up to fifty yards of his windows was cut with a scythe.

THAT SEA VOYAGE.

NEW YORK, July 21. The Tribune's Washington special says the president, although he sleeps very well, is still given hypodermic injection of morphine, and they are said to be increased on account of pains in the legs and feet, which have not disappeared. It appears that the reports as to a sea trip on the Talapoosa have originated largely in the fact that the physicians have been willing to humor the patient, who is extremely anxious to go anywhere or do anything to get out of that sick chamber but there is now no serious intention of taking a sea journey or any other journey at any specified time, nor will there be until it is absolutely safe for the president to move. By that time he may be able to control his own movements and won't be regulated by the physicians. One of his nurses to-night says it will not be safe to take him from the sick room until the wound is healed, and that will be a long time yet. The nurse also says with arrangements that have now been made the president can be more comfortable where he is than he possibly can be elsewhere, as the temperature of the climate has been overcome by artificial refrigeration. There only lacks vitality in the air and it is to be said also that the sanitary conditions of the White house are big.

AFFAIRS AT ALBANY.

Democrats Planning to Break the Dead-Lock.

PLANS TO BREAK THE DEAD-LOCK.

ALBANY, July 21.—There is more activity at the hotels to-night than for several weeks. The halfbreeds and stalwarts are apparently greatly exercised. The stalwarts are demanding a caucus, intimating that they will even vote for the nomination of Lapham. The halfbreeds stand firm against the caucus. They say to hold a caucus now will be to admit that they are responsible for the existence of the dead-lock from the first and that it is only to put them in that position that the stalwarts are clamoring for a caucus. The stalwarts say they will claim that if the caucus had been held at the commencement of the contest an election would have taken place the next day. The democrats also are considerably exercised. They know they can break the deadlock by simply remaining away to allow the election of Lapham but they fear to do this as they will render themselves liable to the charge of having been bribed. Some think they ought to run that risk inasmuch as they think they are now being made tools by the stalwarts. They say that the stalwarts, while ostensibly demanding a caucus and basing their holding out on that ground, have therefor their real object the preventing of Robertson from taking the New-York collectorship. They say to accomplish this the stalwarts will stand out till the 31st of December next. The democrats are seriously considering whether they should not end the deadlock in the way stated above, and appeal to the people to sustain them and at the same time relieve them from any unjust suspicion.

CONKLING'S POLITICAL PLANS.

PHILADELPHIA, July 21.—The Ledger's New York special correspondent learns from a well informed source that Senator Conkling has views as to the future as soon as the Albany contest is decided. It is understood that he will take a trip across the Atlantic with a view to rest and recuperate, and on his return in October he will make a journey through the Southern states, including in his programme the cotton international exposition at Atlanta, Georgia. His friends says he is solicitous about strengthening his political influence in that section and to that end will take the earliest opportunity to remove the unfavorable impression his stalwart speeches during the last year and specially during the presidential campaign are supposed to have made on the southern mind. The ex-senator clearly has not abandoned the expectation of one day being president of the United States, and if he has weakened his position at this end of the union he would seem to consider it sound policy to do what he can to strengthen himself elsewhere. It will be his aim to demonstrate to the southern mind that the stalwart policy meant the restoration of southern prosperity and southern influence within the legitimate meaning of those terms, and that the people who have been representing him as hostile to either, were animated either by malice or personal hostility.

FIREMEN'S TOURNAMENT.

Some Good Time Made by the Cheyenne Hooks.

CHEYENNE, Col., July 21.—The firemen's tournament to-day was a great success. Business was generally suspended. The first race, hook and ladder, 600 feet, was won by Deaver Hooks, No. 2, in 28 seconds, the Cheyennes making the distance in 33½.

The hose race, same distance, was won by the Alerts of Cheyenne in 35½ seconds; Lafayette City 30½, and J. T. Clarks, of Cheyenne, 37 seconds.

Tired of Life.

PUEBLO, Col., July 22.—A young man named Samuel C. Boyd who resided on the Mesa, South Pueblo, committed suicide on the 20th by hanging himself to a cottonwood tree with a piece of bale hay wire. Boyd was a man of education respectably connected and leaves property in the city valued at $10,000. He was a confirmed consumptive and it is supposed committed the deed while laboring under a fit of dispondency. The remains have been sent to Garnett, Kansas, for interment.

Don Carlos' Claims.

LONDON, July 21.—A Paris correspondent says the Spanish government has long felt hurt by the toleration in Paris of the man who openly declared his resolution not to abandon his claims to the Spanish crown. Some time ago Don Carlos visited Perpignan, where he met some of his partizans and decided to attempt some partial scattered risings which at the approach of elections in Spain should stir up an agitation. The Spanish ambassador at Paris has often been embarrassed by the presence of Don Carlos in different drawing rooms.

HOW "THE KID" DIED.

Circumstantial Account of His Shooting by Sheriff Garrett.

Some Particulars About "The Kid's" Life and Adventures.

The Las Vegas Gazette of the 19th inst. contains the following circumstantial report of the killing of Billy "the Kid": "The last buckboard from Ft. Sumner brought news of the killing of the redoubtable Billy "the Kid." When this intelligence was noised abroad yesterday morning, there was intense excitement throughout Las Vegas. Many were inclined to doubt the truth of the report, but a half dozen business men and citizens produced letters from people resident in that country in support of the report. The statement that Pat Garrett had killed the young desperado went far towards confirming the report, for if anyone ever killed "the Kid" it was acknowledged that the nervy Sheriff of Lincoln county would be the man to get in his work on the young terror.

Late in the forenoon Pat Garrett and several men from the neighborhood of Summer arrived in the city. The tall, silent Garrett was the hero of the hour, and was honored for the killing that was confirmed by the personal testimony of him who has forever rid the Pecos country and Lincoln county of the intrepid outlaw.

From an interview with Mr. Garrett, advices from our special correspondent, M. Cosgrove, the mail contractor and other authentic sources we are able to give the Gazette readers a full story of the death of the desperado, who, while living under numerous aliases has been known the length and breadth of the country as "Billy the Kid."

Sheriff Garrett was written to by Mr. M. S. Brazil, who stated that Billy was in the neighborhood of Ft. Sumner. He immediately left Lincoln with two men, John W. Coe and Kit McKinney, to hunt down the outlaw. They arrived at Sumner about midnight on Tuesday last.

Without any delay Pat and party after dismounting, went directly to the house of Pete Maxwell. Knowing where he slept, Pat stepped up to the door of his bed room and found it open. There were three windows in the room, all of which were raised. Through the open door and windows the moonlight streamed into the room, and after posting Coe and McKinney as guards outside, Pat walked into the room. He saw Mr. Maxwell lying on the bed in the southeast corner of the room and Garrett took a seat at the head of the bed. He asked Mr. Maxwell if he knew the whereabouts of the man he was searching for. Mr. Maxwell informed him that he was in the neighborhood.

At the foot of the bed, on the same side as the door, and between it and the door was a window. The moonlight streamed in through the open window, but by sitting at the head of the bed Pat was able to partially hide himself in the shadow. He was talking with Mr. Maxwell when some one came to the door.

The figure advanced to the bed with a butcher knife in his hand. Pat did not recognize the midnight visitor, who kept on advancing till he stood at Mr. Maxwell's bedside and near by Garrett. He put his hand on the supposed sleeper to rouse him, and on Maxwell's rising up he asked, having noticed the strange figure, "who is that?"

The sheriff knew that voice instantly, but not then did he have any idea that the fellow whom he was after was so near by.

Receiving no answer to his query, Billy jumped away from the bed at the same time drawing his self-cocking revolver. He had not got far from the bed when Garrett, who is always cool, no matter how trying the circumstances, rose up and fired. The shot struck "the Kid" in the heart and he fell on his back, a dead man.

Billy, who had been in hiding, had crept into Ft. Sumner that night. He had gone at once to the house of Manuella Bowdre, a woman with whom one of Billy's old compadres, Charlie Bowdre, who was shot when "the Kid," Richabaugh, Tom Pickett and Billy Wilson were "rounded up" at Stinking Springs, had lived with for two or three years up to the time of his death. "The Kid" had been there frequently after making his escape from Lincoln, and on this fatal night had gone there very hungry. There was no meat in the house, and he had gone to Mr. Maxwell's to secure some fresh mutton. This explains why he should have appeared there at that unseasonable hour and also explains how he happened to have the knife in his hand. Since his escape he had allowed his beard to grow and had attempted to disguise himself as a Mexican by darkening his skin by the use of some sort of root. When shot he was dressed for hot weather, in a white shirt, drawers and his stocking feet.

After all the misses he has made, and has eluded death by the closest of close calls, the desperado did not die with his boots on.

An inquest was held the next day, and as he was known to all the country, there was no doubt that "the Kid" was really dead. The foreman of the jury, in a timely communication to the Gazette, says: "This news is true, for I was foreman of the jury of inquest, and know it was 'the Kid's' body that we examined."

He was buried just outside the gate of the cemetery in Sumner and a plain head board marks his grave, bearing only the words: "Billy the Kid."

The brave man who has put out of the world this fugitive from justice, cattle thief and murderer, is deserving of great praise, and recognition in a material way for his daring. Numerous times has the daring officer taken his life in his hands and gone forth campaigning against "the Kid" and his band. He led the party who rounded up the desperadoes at Stinking Springs on the 22nd of December last. This implacable pursuer of the fellow who has terrorized the stockmen to the east and south of us, in killing him has won the gratitude of the people of the entire Territory. Bad as "the Kid" was individually, and he had become desperate, there were other dangers than from his quarrelling alone with either six-shooter or Winchester. Possessed of great personal magnetism, he was to be feared, for he could and did attract to him other lawless spirits. His superb marksmanship, and fine horsemanship made him a leader among such fellows, and "he dared to lead where any dared to follow."

In hunting him down, Sheriff Garrett will deserve to be treated royally, for the paltry $500 offered for "the Kid," by the territory, is no compensation at all for his searching for Billy when he had been given to understand that he would shoot at sight. A subscription paper is in circulation for a testimonial to Sheriff Garrett, and it should receive many signatures and the total foot up a handsome sum.

"Billy the Kid" was in his twenty-fourth year. He has been accused of innumerable murders from the first when he shot a man for insulting his mother, closing the list with Deputy Sheriff Bell and Olinger, whom he killed to regain his liberty, when under sentence of death, in Lincoln on May 6th. There is no knowing how many men he has killed, but at any rate, clever is a small estimate. His career is too well known to the people of this territory to be dwelt on.

He was comely in appearance, about 5 feet 7½ inches tall, slight, muscular figure, blue eyes, that had a searching look, and mirrored in their piercing intensity, when he was roused, the devilish spirit within him. He was a native of New York City, of Irish parentage, and his real name was William McCarty, although he had been known as Henry Antrim, Billy Bonney, etc. He lived in Silver City for a time and was engaged in several capacities as a small boy, but once lodged in jail for petty larceny, after his escape he kept growing from bad to worse. He was mixed up in the Lincoln county war, and was one of the most fearless of all those who participated in that trouble. One incident, that will be recalled by many, that is an index to his dare-devil career, was his escape from the McSween mansion in Lincoln during the Lincoln war. Billy and companions were forced to take refuge in the residence of Lawyer McSween. A detachment of colored troops surrounded it, but even in the face of that he refused to surrender. The house was set on fire, and then filling up his Winchester, he started out on a dead run pumping forth a stream of fire from his rifle. He was unharmed by the bullets that fell fast and thick about him, and jumping on a horse made his escape.

Gov. Lew Wallace once made an appointment with him, and Billy met him at midnight in an out of the way place in Lincoln county. The governor offered him clemency if he would testify against several men then in custody, who are supposed to have been one of the James boys and several noted outlaws. Billy promised to appear against them, his testimony being just what was needed, but he failed to keep his word.

After his arrest at Stinking Springs, he was confined in the Santa Fe jail for three months, till taken to Mesilla for trial for the murder of Deputy Sheriff Wm. Brady during the Lincoln county war. He was convicted and sentenced to be hanged in Lincoln, May 13th, and was taken there under a strong guard. But he managed a week before the time appointed for the execution to in some way gain possession of Deputy Sheriff Bell's revolver and killed him. He then shot Bob Olinger, his other guard, "stood off" the whole town, and forced a man to harness a mule for him, and rode out of town. From that time till his death he had hidden about Ft. Sumner.

He was probably the best shot in the west, and he had an all-abiding faith in his Winchester and six-shooter. The territory is better for his death, and no more will he depredate and lead others to commit depredations. His step-father resides in Silver City and he has a sister in Santa Fe, but he was bound to no one by ties however slight, and died as he has lived these past few years with his hand against everyone.

RESOLVED TO DIE,

Rather Than Slay the Czar a Student Kills Himself.

NEW YORK, July 21.—The Herald's Paris dispatches say that our St. Petersburg correspondent telegraphs to-night fresh particulars concerning the recent plot laid to assassinate the czar. M. Baronoff, chief of police, had received an anonymous letter stating that on the 13th of July the emperor of Russia was to be assassinated. The letter contained nothing more. Baronoff made inquiry in every direction and ascertained that a young student had committed suicide under extraordinary circumstances. Having first run himself through with a sword without having injured a vital part, and then lodged a bullet from a revolver in his left temple, and then finding himself still alive fired again in the temple and in the gaping wound made by his sword. This determined suicide awakened M. Baronoff's suspicions. He found the man apparently dead, but in fact still breathing and in a swoon. Baronoff by the aid of doctors caused the student to come to his senses and to speak. The student declared that he had formed part of a secret society of twenty nihilists who had all sworn to kill the emperor. They had all drawn lots and it had fallen to his lot to carry out the plan of assassination on the 13th of July. Nineteen daggers were suspended over his head and his brother nihilists swore to kill him if he should show the slightest hesitation, but notwithstanding this threat his heart failed him and he resolved to die by his own hand. Before committing suicide he had written Baronoff with the conviction that one of his fellow conspirators would immediately take his place. The student lived till the 18th of July before breathing his last. He revealed the names of his brother nihilists, who have all been secured by the police.

Shooting at Wimbledon.

WIMBLEDON, July 21.—At Wimbledon yesterday the Albert-Jewell competition, one thousand yards, was again won by an American. Dr. Scott of the American team won it in 1880 and Milton Farrow, also of the American team, won in 1870. This year Frank Hyde, an American, and Captain Godsall of the second Bucks regiment, each made a score of 70 out of a possible 75, and on shooting off the tie Hyde made three bulls eyes against Captain Godsall's two inners and one bulls eye, thus winning the prize.

THE NEW HOTEL.

Complete Plans Received From the Architects.

Some Description of the Exterior and Interior of the Building.

The completed plans for the new hotel building have arrived, and through the courtesy of Dr. Solly, we have been permitted to look them over. We will endeavor to give our readers a general idea of the appearance the building will present when completed, and also some description of its internal arrangements.

Owing to the natural grade of the ground at the western end of Pike's Peak avenue, the hotel will present a western front of four stories, while the eastern exposure will present three stories and a basement. In a previous article we have given a general idea of the shape of the building, which will have large courts facing east and west, and around these courts will be placed verandas. These verandas will have sloping roofs just under the windows of the second story. The roofs are made sloping, not only for architectural effect but also to prevent their becoming a play ground for children, whose rompling on the roof would be annoying to the occupants of the contiguous apartments. The east court will be sodded and in its centre a fountain will be placed.

The sanitary arrangements of the hotel have been carefully looked after by Dr. Solly, who prepared the preliminary plans with a view to securing the maximum degree of health and comfort. One object was to secure as much quiet as possible, and therefore the offices, kitchens, bowling alley, etc., are all placed in the northern extreme of the building. Another object to be gained was the securing of plenty of warmth and sunlight in the winter and abundance of shade in the summer. These have been provided for in a very ingenious manner. The portion of the building facing the south is supplied with a piazza which has no roof, thus giving guests an opportunity to enjoy the full benefit of the sunlight. On the north and east and west are many hanging balconies, which shade the windows and keep the rooms cool and are besides very ornamental.

The building in its general architecture is in the Queen Anne style. Two towers rise from the inner corners of the eastern court, each capped with a well shaped dome, while on either side of the west court are bow windows reaching the entire height of the building. The material of which the building will be contructed will be stone, probably of the pink color ornamented with white. This matter has not as yet been definitely settled but should pink stone be decided upon it will be carefully selected with regard to similarity of tint.

The internal arrangements of the hotel are very ingenious and quite too intricate to be explained in detail without the aid of the drawings, however; we will give some of the general features of each floor.

In the basement are situated the kitchens, engine room, Turkish baths, play room for children, servants' rooms, etc.

On the first floor in the northwest part of the building is a spacious dining room, next to this the breakfast room, in the northeast corner are the offices, and in the southwest corner a handsome drawing room. On the south side are a number of chambers. The uncovered veranda already alluded to extends along the south side, while covered portices ornament the remaining three sides. The ladies' entrance is on the north side of the hotel.

The second floor is divided into chambers and suites of apartments. An elevator in the northern end of the building furnishes the means of reaching all of the upper floors. Two wells for light and air are placed in the southern and northern wings and extend to the roof where they open into a ventilator. Around these wells are grouped bath rooms and closets which are thoroughly ventilated by means of the well. There are eight public and six private bath rooms on each floor exclusive of the Turkish baths in the basement. Fire places are introduced when convenient into suits of apartments on each floor. The third and fourth floors are arranged in much the same manner as the second. All the rooms are large enough for a double bed and there are 100 guest chambers.

Work will be begun as soon as the contracts are let. Mr. Furber, of New York, who has for many years been connected with Messrs. Peabody & Stearns, the architects, is expected to arrive here next Saturday, and will remain to superintend the erection of the hotel.

Some criticisms have been made because the first payment on the stock subscriptions was called in so soon. The reason why the call was made is that in stock companies subscriptions are not considered binding until after the first payment is made. In addition to this expenses had already accrued, and it was necessary to meet these, and it was eminently proper that the funds of the company should be used for that purpose.

Red Snow.

Prospectors returning from Holy Cross mountain tell the Leadville Chronicle that the ground is covered with red snow. This is a frequent phenomenon in the polar regions due to the presence of minute red animalculæ in the snow. A microscope detects their presence, but how they get there is a difficult question, and one that has never been satisfactorily answered. The red snow in this region is first seen at the bend of Cross Creek, where it may be observed in patches of intense carmine, varying in area from as large as a man's hat to twenty feet in diameter. Further on in some of the steep gulches with which the country abounds, the bottoms are entirely covered with the strange substance. In some places the color is vivid in the extreme, while in others it fades to a faint pink, producing an effect not readily described in words.

Visit of Fish Commission.

Hon. W. E. Sisty, the state fish commissioner was in the city yesterday on official business. At the last legislature a bill was passed providing for the establishment of a fish hatchery, and also provided that this place should be selected by a commission of three, consisting of the governor, the fish commissioner and a third gentleman, appointed by the governor. This commission has just visited the South Arkansas where two eligible spots were offered on advantageous terms for this purpose. A. Segendorf, Esq., represented the governor on the commission. Yesterday the commission visited Mr. Rose's place and Manitou accompanied by Mayor France. As these places did not offer the inducements offered on the South Arkansas, we are not likely to have the hatcheries established here. The commission will visit two or three places in the northern part of the state before finally determining where to put the hatcheries.

THE LUONA MINE.

Continuing the Controversy as to Its Value.

The controversy among the directors of the Luona mine as to the value of the property still continues. Mr. J. H. Fletcher, who is well known in this city, having resided here for nearly a year, writes the following letter to the Goldie Miner:

Mr. Editor:

I see by the Denver papers that F. G. Taylor is out in print again. I regret this, but since Mr. Taylor was the first person connected with the Luona to fly to the columns of a newspaper, I claim the right to reply to his last.

Mr. Taylor begins his letter by referring to the reports which the original owners of the mine carried to him of its extent and riches. So far as I am personally concerned, I told him nothing but what I believed to be the fact. And he did not take our statements for it, for Mr. McCord, Mr. Berry and others men who held no interest in the property—gave him more glowing reports of it than the owners did. Then he had reports from two of his pet experts—Ridgely and Jacobs and their reports placed the mine far beyond any pictured by us. Those reports I shall give the public in due time.

His next statement is that he "went to the mine at great expense and risk." Quite true, particularly the expense part of the statement—"and got in all, five sacks of ore." Considering that the work performed ran away from the lead and not to it, I am surprised that he even got five sacks itself.

He then states that we ordered him to sell stock at 50 cents per share to find some ore. So far as I recollect, Mr. Taylor was either the mover or the seconder of the resolution that gave him that order. If not, I am quite certain he gave it his hearty support. But there was another resolution offered which found no seconder, and of which Mr. Taylor makes no mention. Mr. Taylor himself moved that he (Mr. Taylor) be allowed ten per cent. for selling this stock! So that when the Railway and Mining Gazette commends Mr. Taylor for "refusing to further victimize the public by allowing any more stock to be sold," he must not forget that all that was required to induce that gentleman to do it was a commission of ten cents on the dollar. It would be ungentlemanly in one to publish private correspondence but if this is disputed I shall be compelled to prove my position by publishing one of Mr. Taylor's letters to me on this subject.

I regret very much that this unseemly controversy should be continued. We are now at work on the Luona, and have as fine a showing for the work done as any mine in the state. I am determined that all stockholders shall never regret their purchasing the stock of this company if the mineral is in the ground. In order to be successful we ought to be united, each director striving to save and enrich the stockholders. But while some of the owners are doing their level best to bring the mine out all right sacrificing their time and money to do it it is really too bad to be hampered and misrepresented as some of us are at the present time.

Yours, &c.,
J. H. FLETCHER,
President Luona Co.

Fun at Manitou.

Prof. C. B. Plummer, the celebrated elocutionist and humorous delineator of the Pacific slope character, gives one of his peculiar monologue entertainments at Saratoga Hall to-night, for the benefit of the Congregational building fund. We clip the following from the Territorial Enterprise, Virginia City, Nev.

The opera house was crowded last night on the occasion of the entertainment given by C. B. Plummer, the elocutionist and delineator of humorous character. Selections were given from T. Starr King, Longfellow, Mark Twain, the Danbury News man and others. Hood's Bridge of Sighs was called for and given in a most feeling and effective manner. All of Mr. Plummer's selections were good. They are good and enjoyable at any time. Good when one sits down and reads them to himself, but when spoken by Mr. Plummer in his inimitable style and with appropriate gesture and expression, the words are instinct with life and one has the whole scene before him.

If the Denver and New Orleans is to be a mere tool of the Union Pacific, then it is no wonder that Denver so energetically opposes it. The practical effect will be to make Denver a way station like Cheyenne.

There ought to be some laws which will punish the cold-blooded men who manage mining properties purely for dishonest speculative purposes. They injure more than horse thieves and deserve no better treatment.

The Pueblo Chieftain takes exception to the Tribune's attacks on the Denver & New Orleans. It is consistent in this because the argument that the Denver & New Orleans road will cause discriminations in favor of Pueblo and against Denver, should make friends for that road in Pueblo.

Mr. Lisly, the fish commissioner, was in the city yesterday. He is the most philanthropic of all our office-holders, but still don't pass himself off as a friend of the people. If he is successful in his undertakings, he will accomplish the most practicable good to his state of any one in his generation.

Senator-elect Miller is a good protectionist. He represented his pulp mill with excellent effect during the discussion of the repeal of the tariff on pulp in the house a year ago. Mr. Miller will not be thought the less of for this as he does it from a patriotic impulse to benefit the laboring man.

The Tribune assaults on John Evans continue. At first it appeared as though Mr. Rothaker was using his paper to carry on the personal fight which Governor Evans began by attempting to expel Mr. Rothaker from his position. Such a fight is sometimes necessary for an editor to wage, but usually it is unjustifiable and out of taste. But from the alleged facts developed it would appear that there was need of such an expose. Such a financier should be known to the public at large.

SILVER LEGISLATION REVIEWED.

In the silver conference which has just closed the United States was esteemed as one of the strongest portions of the financial world. Europe sees that she needs the cooperation of America in any large financial measures. In 1873 when the law demonetizing silver was passed it created little notice as this policy did not effect the value of silver. To-day the United States can take no step in silver legislation which will not create immense interest abroad. The United States now holds more gold than any other country except, possibly, England. It is also quite apparent that in the deliberations of the conference that we occupied the most independent position. While we should prefer that the mints of the world should be open for the free and unlimited coinage of silver, still we can stand the present situation better than any European country. For two years we have immensely increased the amount of gold on hand at the expense of Europe and gold is still coming to us. We have no exchanges to manage which put us to a disadvantage. The only injury done is to our mining interests. With the general free and unlimited coinage of silver, the value would be raised and thus increase the net proceeds of our mines. But this can hardly be considered a disadvantage. At the present price of silver, there is sufficient speculation in silver mines for a healthful condition of affairs. In case of a rise in value, this will accrue to this country as the silver produced stays here. In France it is different. Her gold is rapidly going out of the country and she is left with a mass of silver coin which will be at a discount of fifteen per cent in paying foreign exchanges. England would like a change because of her Asiatic colonies. Germany is far from being on a sound financial basis and wants the free coinage of silver so as to dispose of her immense quantities of silver lying idle in her vaults.

While this splendid showing for our country is a matter of congratulation, it might be well to look back at our silver legislation and see how wise and beneficial it has been. At the beginning of the agitation in 1878 there were really three parties on this question in this country. There was one [illegible] party, represented by the greenback element which demanded the remonetization of silver with its free and unlimited coinage. A second party of conservative and intelligent bimetallists desired the remonetization of silver but opposed the policy of free and unlimited coinage. A third party believed in the gold standard and opposed absolutely remonetization of silver. Our legislation [illegible] more nearly the views of the second party, which [illegible] plainly [illegible] the coinage of silver until there is a more definite understanding among the bimetallic countries. To the wisdom and intelligence of this party the country owes its present enviable position. Had the policy of the first party been adopted, it would have been found that [illegible] of the policy of the monometallists. The silver of Europe would have taken the place of our gold. The balance of trade which has been pouring gold into our coffers would have sent silver instead. The result as [illegible] by Germany and other European [illegible] would have been [illegible] by [illegible] silver country. If this [illegible] we should have been [illegible] the [illegible] of the recent conference at Austria or Italy and other [illegible] the expense. The country would have been compelled to stand all the loss caused by the depreciation of silver which is now being sustained by Germany, France and Holland and [illegible] putting countries at our own expense on a solid gold financial basis. In a word, we should have benefited others at our own expense. The adoption of the gold standard policy would have worked as [illegible] harm. The products of our silver mines would have been [illegible] and we should have lost as much gold as we now hold, and would have occupied as [illegible] a position as England did.

But instead we adopted the conservative policy by declaring for [illegible] bimetallic without providing for the free coinage of silver, and thus were saved from the perils which have surrounded India and threaten France. This policy was pursued in spite of a greenback majority in the house which favored the original Bland bill and [illegible] voted for the free and unlimited coinage of silver. The results have all approved of the policy of the hard money party. It should teach our politicians who are prone to act on popular sentiment, that the wisdom of the advocacy of more conservative and honest measures is soon vindicated and the people respect those who act on their conscience and reason wisely rather than those who act in popular impulse for temporary popularity unwisely. The Butlers, Voorhees, Careys and Ewings have no influence, while the Shermans, Garfields and Bayards are considered the wise, patriotic and safe financiers.

JOHN BURNSIDE.

A Romantic Story of the Dead Louisiana Millionaire.

New Orleans Picayune.

I see a great deal written about this gentleman, lately deceased, about whom no one seems to know much, but all agree that he was born in the north of Ireland, and claimed all his life to be a British subject. I have heard a different story, though I do not vouch for it. In my boyhood I spent two years in Greenbrier and other counties adjacent in the mountains of Virginia. Andrew Bierne, an Irishman, was the capitalist of that region. The story current there was that one afternoon, as he was riding and had stopped to water his horse at a little rivulet or brook, he found an infant boy carefully wrapped up asleep on a bed of rushes. Quite startled at the sight, after riding around and hallooing half an hour for the owners of the child, night approaching and wolves being numerous in the forest, he took the child and carried it to his house, where he placed it under the care of his favorite attendants, John and his wife. The parents never turned up, and, in due time, the boy was named John Burnside, a name suggested by the locality where he was found —by the side of a burn or brook, a word common in Scotland and in the North of Ireland. I often saw this young man in the several mercantile establishments of Andrew Bierne, in West Virginia, where he seemed to be a sort of supervising clerk or agent, visiting the several stores alternately, and I never heard there any other account of him. From his business exactitude and industry he was a great favorite with Mr. Bierne, but with few others. He was taciturn, reserved and morose even when a young man. But his business habits and talents recommended him, and Mr. Bierne established him in New Orleans, with his brother or son, Oliver Bierne, where his characteristics remained as they were in early life. He had no social feeling, no sympathy, no public spirit, but was pre-eminently successful in trade. I do not vouch for this account of his origin, but a friend tells me that he met with Andrew Bierne in congress in 1835-6, and he did not contradict the story, but only laughed and winked and shrugged his shoulders when it was repeated. If my story be correct, it is amusing to remember how pleasantly Mr. Burnside jockeyed General Butler and got back his great crop of sugar on the plea of being a British subject. One thing is certain, the deceased never conversed or would permit any one to converse with him about his origin or birthplace. One of his fellow-clerks with Mr. Bierne, Andrew Mennis (brother of the late Hon. Calhoun Mennis, of Bedford county, Va.), told me that he called on Mr. Burnside when in the zenith of his mercantile glory in New Orleans, was received kindly, but happening to recur to the story of his birth, and contrasting it with his great success, Mr. Burnside flew into a rage, jumped up from the table, and never spoke to him afterward.

STORY OF THE PIGS.

Showing How the Runt Was Wiser Than Brer Wolf.

Uncle Remus, in Atlanta Constitution.

"One time, 'way back yander, de ole Sow en 'er chilluns wuz all livin' longer de yuther creeturs. Hit seem like ter me dat de ole Sow wuz a widder 'oman, en ef I don't run inter no mistakes, hit look like ter me dat she got five chilluns. Lemme see," continued Uncle Remus, with the air of one determined to justify his memory by a reference to the record, and enumerating with great deliberation—"dar wuz Big Pig, en dar wuz Little Pig, en dar wuz Speckle Pig, en der wuz Blunt, en las' en lonesomes', dar wuz Runt.

"One day dese yer Pigs dun she know she gwine kick de bucket, en she tuck'n' call up all 'er chilluns en tell um dat de time done come w'en dey gotter look out for deyse'f, and den she up'n' tell um good-ez-she-kin dough 'er breff mighty short, 'bout w'at a bad man is ole Brer Wolf, en she [illegible] out [illegible] de [illegible] Brer Wolf [illegible]. Big Pig [illegible] Little Pig [illegible] [illegible] Runt, she say [illegible] Brer Wolf [illegible] Runt [illegible] [illegible] Widder Sow, she [illegible], she [illegible] tellin' um [illegible] dey better [illegible] de eyes on Brer Wolf, kaze he mighty smart en 'ceitful man.

"Wan [illegible] dat day [illegible] de [illegible] [illegible] all [illegible] en de [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] Big Pig [illegible] house [illegible] Little Pig [illegible] Speckle Pig [illegible] house [illegible] Blunt, he [illegible] Runt, she [illegible] [illegible] she [illegible] rock house.

"[illegible] Big Pig [illegible] Brer Wolf [illegible] [illegible] Brer Wolf.

"[illegible] Brer Wolf [illegible] [illegible]

"[illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] Brer Wolf.

"[illegible] Brer Wolf [illegible] [illegible] Speckle Pig [illegible]

"Nex' day, ole Brer Wolf put up de same game on Little Pig, en so en sing his song, en Little Pig, she tuck'n' let him in, en den Brer Wolf he tuck'n' turn de compliments en let Little Pig in."

Here Uncle Remus [illegible] and he took [illegible] to repeat it several times.

"Little Pig she let Brer Wolf in, en Brer Wolf he let Little Pig in, en w'at mo' kin you ax dan dat? Nex' time Brer Wolf pay a call he drop in on Speckle Pig, en tap at de do' en sing his song:

"'Ef you'll open de do' en let me in,
I'll warm my han's en go home ag'in.'

"But Speckle Pig she kinder 'spicion sumpin' en she 'fuse ter open de do'. Yit Brer Wolf mighty 'ceitful man, en he talk mighty sof' en he talk mighty sweet. Bimeby, he git his nose in de crack er de do' en he say ter Speckle Pig, 'sezee, fer ter des let 'im git one paw in, en den he won' go no fudder. He git de paw in, en den he beg fer ter git de yuther paw in, en den w'en he git dat in, den he beg fer ter git his head in, en den w'en he git his head in, en his paws in, co'se all he got ter do is ter shove de do' open en walk right in; en w'en matters stan' dat away, twa'nt long 'fo' he done make fresh meat er Speckle Pig.

"Nex' day he make 'way wid Blunt, en de day after he 'low dat he make a pass at Runt. Now, den, right dar whar ole Brer Wolf slip up. He like some folks what I knows. He'd a bin mighty smart ef he hadn'ter bin too smart. Runt was de littles' one er de whole gang, yit all de same news done got out dat she 'uz pestered wid sense like grown folks.

"Brer Wolf he crepe up ter Runt house, en he got un'need the winder, he did, en he sing out:

"'Ef you'll open de do' and let me in,
I'll wom my han's and go home ag'in.'

"But all de same, Brer Wolf can't coax Runt fer ter open de do', en needer kin he break in, kaze de house made outer rock. Bimeby Brer Wolf make out he done gone off, en den after while he come back en knock at de do'—blam, blam, blam!

"Runt she sot by de fier. She did, en sorter scratch 'er year, en holler out:

"'What's dat?' sez she.

"'Hit's Speckle Pig,' sez ole Brer Wolf, sezee, 'twix' a snort and a grunt. 'I fotch some peas fer yo' dinner?'

"Runt, she tuck'n' laugh, she did, en holler back:

"'Sis' Speckle Pig ain't never talk thoo dat many tooth.'

"Brer Wolf go off'g'in, en bimeby he come back en knock. Runt, she sot en rock, en holler out:

"'Who dat?'

"'Big Pig,' says Brer Wolf, 'I fotch some sweet co'n fer yo' supper.'

"Runt, she look thoo de crack un'need de do', and laugh en say, sez she:

"'Brer Big Pig ain't had no ha'r on his huff.'

"Den ole Brer Wolf he git mad, he did, en say he gwine fer come down de chimbley, en Runt, she say, sez she, dat de onliest way w'at he kin git in; en den, w'en she year Brer Wolf clumbin' up on de outside er de chimbley, shen tuck'n pile up a whole lot er broom sage front er de h'a'th, en w'en she year 'im clumbin' down on de inside she tuck de tongs en shove de straw on de fier, en de smoke make Brer Wolf head swim, en he drap down, en 'fo' he know it, he uz done bu'nt ter a cracklin'; en dat wuz de las' er Brer Wolf. Leas' ways," added Uncle Remus, putting in a cautious proviso to fall back upon in case of an emergency, "leas' ways, hit 'uz de las' er dat Brer Wolf."

The Outlook at Rugby.

A correspondent of the Cincinnati Commercial, who reviews the condition of the colony at Rugby, Tenn., in a long letter, concludes as follows

"I do not think on the whole that Rugby is the fraud which some people who have been induced to come here seem to consider it. Its 'secret history' fully explains its present stagnation; but it has managed to stagnate along, as it has done so far, chiefly through a religious observance of the eleventh commandment—'Thou shall not be found out.' The board certainly owes some account of its stewardship to the public, but the fear it has of publicity is something ludicrous. When the settlers had prepared an effigy of Mr. Boyle, to be burned in front of that gentleman's lodgings as a hint of the love and respect in which he was held, the argument by which the officials of the board succeeded in preventing the performance was that the affair would get into the papers. And so be allowed to muddle along as it likes, and to make as much money as it can, seems to be the only desire of the present management. But Rugby deserves a better fate. It is a lovely, fertile and wonderfully healthful spot and it is the natural [illegible] [illegible] of [illegible] which [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] of the [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] the [illegible] of the [illegible] [illegible] very [illegible] between the interests of the board and those of the Church [illegible] which I have spoken. [illegible] at present, and I should [illegible] [illegible] the only [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] management. [illegible] Mr. Thomas Hughes himself should come over and take [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] the place [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] few more [illegible] lights, [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]."

Norwegian Fisheries.

The results of the Norwegian fisheries [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] years of depression, [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] These [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] 1869 to 1875 [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] the Norwegian fishery has been [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] barrels for export. In recent years important subsidiary industries have arisen in connection with these fisheries. Formerly, the bones and refuse of the fish were thrown away as useless. But in 1869 a factory was established in Lofoden for converting this fish refuse into guano, and has proved remarkably successful. The exports of fish guano in 1877 were 2,126,557 kilos, and in 1879 had risen to nearly 6,000,000 kilos. By a new process that is now being applied it is hoped to obtain several important byproducts from the fish offal, such as [illegible], gelatine, albumen and fish glue. It is claimed that glue [illegible] not inferior in quality to and much lower in price than the existing supplies of the various articles may be thus obtained.

STAR ROUTE FRAUDS.

Straw Bonds Receiving an Investigation.

PHILADELPHIA, July 21.—The cases of the men arrested recently upon the charges of conspiracy to defraud the government in letting star route mail contracts in Arizona have been taken up. [illegible] the defendant, said he did not know the contractor (Wiley) and had signed his bond at the request of McDevitt. He said he [illegible] property in Camden county on which he had become surety. He said he knew Ensign, who had also become bondsman. He hoped there would be no trouble about the matter and that he had [illegible] At this point Acting District Attorney Valentine produced certificates showing that the property claimed by Price to be worth $35,000 had been sold for taxes for $154 and not redeemed since. Ensign told the inspector he owned four improved city properties, but upon investigation it was shown that at the time of executing the bonds these properties were mortgaged beyond their assessed value.

Wiley, who was the principal or bidder, was seen last week by the inspector, and [illegible] Thomas A. McDevitt had some time since visited him and requested him to bid for six Star routes in Utah promising at the same time that he would furnish sureties and obtain for Wiley an appointment as route agent. Wiley was not to be bothered with contracts and was to be held blameless in case of trouble. Four of these contracts were bid for by Wiley, and were awarded to him but upon his failure to carry out their provisions they were raised some seven thousand dollars. All communications referring to contracts received by Wiley were turned over by him to McDevitt. When Inspector Barrett reported this statement to McDevitt the latter said it was all right, but he acted in the matter to befriend Wiley, who was out of employment and who he thought could obtain work in this way. Wiley has not yet been arrested, although warrants have been out nearly a week. The total amount of surety entered on the four Star route bonds by Ensign and Price was $240,000. The certificate of the Philadelphia postmaster which is signed by Jas. T. Bingham, assistant postmaster, states that diligent and careful search has been made and in the opinion of the postmaster the sworn statement as to responsibility made by Ensign and Price were correct.

Destructive Storms.

CHICAGO, July 21.—Although an immense force has been busy at the race track this forenoon and afternoon getting it in condition for the races to-morrow, another heavy thunder storm to-night has rendered their efforts useless. There will be no racing to-morrow. The storms of the last three days have been marked by almost unparalleled displays of lightening which has illuminated the sky for hours at a time with an almost continual glare. A very considerable quantity of rain has fallen and reports from outside the city indicate that there have been many deaths from lightning strokes and the storm has been wide spread and some times disastrous to property and crops. To-night's storm lasted four hours with frequent and terrific peals of thunder. In Wisconsin crops are badly damaged, the storms having extended all over the state.

Increase in Dairy Exports.

WASHINGTON, July 21. There is a small increase in the exports of dairy products in the past six months over the same time last year, both in value and volume.

Powers Protesting.

LONDON, July 21.—A joint note signed by England, Austria and Holland, with the probable adhesion of the other powers, is in preparation, addressed to Russia on the question of her harsh laws against Jews, as illustrated by the case of the English Jew, Lewisohn.

An Engineer Killed.

WHITE HALL, N. Y., July 21.—The night express from New York, over the Delaware and Hudson canal companies' railroad, struck a rock near Dresden, and a portion of the train plunged into the lake. Engineer Chas. Casswell, was instantly killed, and the fireman was injured. No passengers were hurt. The railroad was blocked for seven hours.

Six Yachtsmen Drowned.

BOSTON, July 21.—A yacht containing six young men belonging to South Boston, capsized in Squantum Gut last evening, and all on board were drowned. The bodies were recovered and taken to South Boston this morning. Names not ascertained.

REWARD OF MERIT.

Making Up a Purse for the Man Who Killed the "Kid."

The man who shot "Billy the Kid" is likely to be handsomely rewarded for his marksmanship. The Las Vegas Optic says "The people of Las Vegas are perhaps as appreciative as any in the world, notwithstanding that they are all meaner than dirt and as barbarous as cannibals. When the news of the killing of the 'Kid' was brought to the city it was decided that Garrett should be handsomely remunerated for his trouble, and when the Optic urged the same thing last night the matter was as good as settled. A fund was started and has at this time nearly $1,000 already. Here is the way the list was headed

First National Bank	$100
A A Jn Rue	100
Scott Moore	100
Houghton, H & W , G , H & Co	200

"After this followed a number of smaller subscriptions and the good work is still going on. Garrett will get the $500 reward made by the territory, and it is said that John Chisum, a heavy cattle grower of Lincoln county, will hand over a cool $1,000 as a substantial evidence of his interest in the matter. Other citizens of Lincoln county and Fort Sumner are expected to chip in another thousand, so taking all in all Garrett will have a snug little bank account when his friends get through with him. Then he got away with his life, which was quite an object."

The Long and Derry

From the Leadville Herald

But little has been said about the Long and Derry mine lately, but the owners keep pegging away and are reaping a handsome profit from working it. The ore shipments at present amount to from nine to ten tons a day, and the average yield of the ore is seventy ounces in silver and from fifteen to eighteen per cent in lead. There are forty men employed at the mine. The tunnel started from Iowa gulch last summer is in four hundred feet. It is not now being worked, but it is probable that work will soon again be resumed. Messrs Long and Derry now own eight claims on the hill named after them, and all are now contiguous. The Mary Ann and the Mary Jane claims, bought by them last winter and added to their already valuable group have been proved up by shafts, and both show ore. No shipments from these claims are at present being made, as there is no road to where the ore is being taken out. Mr Long states that he is not certain yet whether he and his partner will build a road to the shafts or construct a chute so as to send the ore to the gulch below. There have been two important strikes made in the Long and Derry property lately, both being in the Faint Hope claim of the combination. On this claim, which is to the north three shafts are being sunk. Two of these have in the past few days penetrated an ore body. In the first twelve feet of solid ore is now cut and the bottom of the vein not yet reached. In the second fifteen feet of ore is exposed. The third has not yet reached mineral. The depth where the ore is found is but sixty feet. Mr Long states that by the first of next month the ore output from the mine will be fully twenty tons a day, and even that amount will soon be far exceeded.

Silverton to Have the Telephone

The La Plata Miner says "It rejoiceth us mightily to be able to chronicle the establishment of telephone communication between Silverton and Lake City. The instrument arrived early in the week, and the wire will probably be stretched so as to have the line ready for business the first of next week. The line passes through Animas Forks and Rose's cabin, connecting with the telegraph at Lake City. We will no longer have to wait a week for news. The office here will be in the back room of the San Juan County bank."

The Railroad War

NEW YORK, July 21.—Broadway freight agents to-day decided for the uncompromising maintenance of the freight pool. There is no change in the railroad war. One broker quotes rates at $14 to Kansas City, $18 to Omaha, $40 to Denver, $14 to St. Louis.

Death of a Millionaire.

OMAHA, Neb., July 21. B S. Fox, of San Antonio, died at the Ogden house, Council Bluffs, last evening, after a week's illness. He was taken sick soon after leaving Chicago for home, and was obliged to stop at Council Bluffs. The cause of his death was inflammation of the bowels. The deceased was a bachelor, 65 years old, and is said to have been worth over one million dollars. He owned a large vineyard in California and other valuable property. His nephew is expected at Council Bluffs from California tomorrow.

Manipulating Central Arizona

NEW YORK, July 21. Central Arizona was forced down to 3¼, with very heavy transactions. The manipulation of this stock is exciting much unfavorable comment. The stock report in a morning journal has the following: We wish to ask the officers of Central Arizona a few pertinent questions. Perhaps they will consider them impertinent. Is it, or is it not, a fact that you are now making arrangements to list your stock on the London stock exchange, and that you are working the market for the purpose of shaking out holders of stock that you may put the market prices up without having to buy much stock, and that you will have high prices in New York to make your London deal on? We will be glad to publish your reply.

Matters at the Mint

WASHINGTON, July 21. The treasury department to-day purchased 190,000 ounces of fine silver for delivery at the Philadelphia, San Francisco and New Orleans mints. The mint has prepared a circular for the purpose of ascertaining the amount of gold and silver used in manufactories and arts in the United States during the last fiscal year. It calls for the amount of United States coins melted and worked up, fine bars used and foreign coin, dust and old manufactured articles made into new work. The answers last year showed that there had been an aggregate of $12,008,-304 used.

The colonial government of New Zealand and New South Wales and Victoria have agreed to go into a convention for the exchange of money orders with the United States.

Facts From France

PARIS, July 21.—The municipalities have voted 2,200,000 francs for the improvement of the water works. It is said that wheat and other crops are suffering from heat and the absence of rain. The product will be much below last year.

Hot Weather

BERLIN, July 21.—The weather Tuesday and Wednesday was almost intolerable and several cases of sun stroke occurred.

Greece and the Powers

LONDON, July 21.—The Right Honorable Geo J Goschen, in addressing his constituents at Ripon, his first speech since his return from Constantinople, testified to the cordial co-operation of the six ambassadors of the powers in settling the Greek question. He declared emphatically that he saw no deviation from the straight course on the part of Russia who was so much suspected and that no powers had been more prudent than Austria. If it be true that Austria harbors the design of pushing down to Salonica he had found no trustworthy evidence of such a course.

Interesting Railroad Statistics

NEW YORK July 21.—The Post says the total number of miles of railroad in the United States in operation at the close of '80 was 93,171 miles, an increase for the year of 7,174 miles, against 2,771 miles the previous year, and 2,687 miles in '78. The gross earnings of the railroads for 1880 were $615,105,-911, against $525,620,190 in 1879 and the net earnings were $255,193,436, against $219,916,-724 in 1879. The dividends paid aggregated $77,115,411, against $61,681,470 in 1879. The gross earnings reported on the railroads in the southern states were $48,317,704, against $43,917,281 for 1879.

Unveiling a Monument

CASTLETON, VT., July 21. A monument to the confederate dead was unveiled to-day before a large crowd and in a storm. Addresses were made by federal and confederate generals. The occasion was very noteworthy.

Edison's Electric Light

NEW YORK July 21. The World says Edison is still pushing on his preparations for lighting the district bounded by Spruce and Wall streets and Nassau street and the East river. Wires have been put in nearly five hundred houses, and the district will probably be lighted on October 1st. The work is all completed with the exception of erecting the heavy engines in the central station. The contract made with subscribers is that the light shall cost the same amount as gas. The lighting of the district Edison thinks will reduce the cost of gas to one dollar per 1,000 cubic feet.

Storm in the East

BOSTON, July 21.—Dispatches indicate that the heavy thunder storm to-day did considerable damage in eastern Massachusetts. The lightning struck in many places burning a number of barns and killing several horses, shattering flag staffs, telegraph poles, trees, etc. and a large quantity of window glass was broken by flying missiles and hail stones. Half a dozen prostrations of people are reported, but no fatal cases. At New Bedford a schooner was struck and her mizzen top mast splintered. John Shandy, steward was knocked senseless and the mate was injured.

Reducing Immigrant Rates

NEW YORK, July 21.—The Erie railway has reduced immigrant rates to accord with the reductions of first class rates on a basis of $4 to Chicago and $11 50 to St Louis.

CAVE OF THE WINDS!

IT IS LOCATED

One Mile from Manitou in Williams Canon.

It possesses more rooms and contains a greater number of interesting sights and scenes than any other underground cavern on the continent. One room in it amply repays a visit, exertion and expense. Two hours spent here will bring a greater amount of satisfaction and knowledge than any other place around the city. Come and see how God beautifies the holes and crevices of His earth.

Guides at the house in the canon or at entrance to cave where lights and suits are furnished.

B W SIPPLE,
Manager of the Gazette,
ABE ROBERTS,
Proprietor of Mountaineer

There was a noticeable change in the temperature yesterday

It is over three weeks since we have had an entertainment in the opera house

The afternoon express from the south yesterday was one hour and a half late.

The hook and ladder company was out for its regular practice run last evening

No clue as yet to the villains who perpetrated the bold robbery on Sunday night

Governor Pitkin is expected at Manitou tonight, to remain with his family over Sunday.

Sufficient rain fell yesterday to settle the dust, but not enough to materially benefit the grazing

Prof Hummer will give one of his inimitable entertainments in Saratoga hall, Manitou this evening

Not a day passes that we do not hear of the robbery of passengers by confidence men at the Pueblo depot

The Denver Republican will next Monday morning contain a special article on Manitou and its surroundings

Nearly all of our leading horsemen are in attendance at the Leadville races, many of them having horses entered

The J M Sigafus hose company's membership now numbers fifteen all that is required to perfect the organization

Miss Nellie Norton, a neice of Mrs Hurd has been tendered the position of teacher in the public school and we understand that she has accepted.

The Denver and Rio Grande Base Ball club must have taken to heart their defeat at Denver on the Fourth for they have not appeared in the diamond since Traveling Auditor Gravitt, of the Denver & Rio Grande, looks rather melancholy since the departure of yesterday afternoon's express Why is it thus?

It is estimated that about one out of every ten of the tourists and new comers who attempt to walk to the summit of Pike's Peak succeed in getting there

Mr D S Covert of the Chicago Tribune, made us a pleasant call last evening He has just returned from an eastern visit and left on the last night's express for Leadville

Next Sunday's excursion from Denver to Manitou promises to be fully as successful as the one given last Sunday and the Manitou people look forward to another lively day

The G S Barnes juvenile hose company are looking forward to the coming tournament with no little interest They expect the juvenile companies of Denver and Leadville to be present.

Mr S Greenway reports that Mr D D Streeter, the well known railroad contractor, has a huge force of men employed in grading the Denver & New Orleans road near his ranch just south of the Divide

Mr Peter Mariani has refitted the barber shop formerly run by Louis Piemont, just opposite the post office He has employed three good barbers and is now prepared to give as good satisfaction as any other place of the kind in the city

The Methodist excursion for next Thursday is attracting considerable attention and promises to be a great success A reclining chair car will be attached for the accommodation of those desiring ease as well as pleasure Extra charge for chair for the round trip $1 50

The Durango South West of the 19th inst says "Miss Pearl Gaines left by stage for her home in Colorado Springs this morning Miss Gaines' services as teacher in the public school at this place have been characterized by great thoroughness and have won for her an enviable reputation We sincerely hope she may yield to the earnest solicitations of her many friends and return in the fall to assume the charge of our school."

We are glad to learn that Pueblo will send a team to the firemen's tournament to be held here in August The Pueblo News [illegible] the matter as follows "The Colorado Springs Gazette thanks the Pueblo fire department [illegible] will [illegible] send a team to attend the [illegible] Don't be at all alarmed, neighbor, we are not proud we don't "blow" about it, but just you wait until the time comes"

A few days ago the Denver & Rio Grande road let a contract to Mr Thomas Atchison to grade an extension from Marshall Pass for five [illegible] Work is to begin immediately An engineering party is surveying above.

Miss Lora Bag[illegible] who for some time past has been visiting friends in this city, returned to her home in Lincoln, Nebraska, yesterday afternoon

The horse Johnny Trouble owned by B C Holly of this city took first money in the 2 40 class race at Leadville on Wednesday
